

Assisting employers with the cost of on-the-job training

- A means to offset the costs of hiring and training new employees.
- A wage subsidy must be approved by Employment Manitoba before the new employee is hired.

What do employers need to provide?

- on-the-job training that provides a direct work experience and develops job-specific skills that lead to ongoing full-time employment
- a minimum of 30 hours per week of employment
- a guarantee that no current employees are displaced by the new employee

Which employers may be eligible?

- those that offer ongoing employment opportunities and are:
 - non-profit and community groups
 - crown corporations
 - public health and education institutions, municipalities, bands and tribal councils
 - private sector employers

Who can an employer hire through a wage subsidy?

Individuals may be eligible if they fit the following category:

- unemployed and receiving provincial Employment and Income Assistance benefits;

What do employers need to know?

- The maximum length of support is 52 weeks; depending on individual skills development needs, the job requirements identified by the employer and local labour market considerations.
- Subsidy levels and length of support may vary
- Overtime and vacation pay are not eligible costs
