

Child Performers Permit Information

All children promoted by a talent or modeling agency must have Child Performer Permit from Employment Standards. This requirement results from the Worker Recruitment and Protection Act, which improves protections for children in the talent and modeling industry.

What is a child performer?

Anyone under the age of 17 who performs as an actor, extra, musician, singer, dancer, entertainer, or a model promoting an idea or service.

Why do child performers need a permit?

The permit system gives parents/guardians, the talent agency, and Employment Standards a chance to make sure the work is done in socially appropriate settings, with the right supervision, and does not affect the health, safety, or well-being of the child.

The permit system also allows the Province to confirm the agency is licensed, and to introduce the "Code of Conduct for Working with Child Performers" that must be followed.

How do I apply for a Child Performer Permit?

Download an application form from the website at www.manitoba.ca/labour/standards/forms.html or contact Employment Standards. The completed form can be dropped off, mailed, or faxed to the Employment Standards office.

The Child Performer Permit application will not proceed unless the talent agency promoting the child is licensed with Employment Standards.

How much does a Child Performer Permit cost?

There is no fee for a Child Performer Permit. Permits are given one time per child, per agency, and are valid for as long as the child works with that agency (or until the child turns 17).

When do I apply for a child performer permit?

Once an agency decides it will promote a child, the application can be filled out. When the application has been approved the applicant and talent agency are each mailed a copy of the permit and work may begin. Child performers must have approval from Employment Standards before they can be promoted by a talent agency.

What kind of information is required to apply for child performer permit?

To apply for a child performer permit, the following information is required:

- Name, age, address, contact information of the child and the talent agency
- Signatures of the child's parent or guardian and a representative of the talent agency

Are there restrictions for a child performer?

Some of the restrictions for child performers will be similar to the protections for children in other industries, such as the number of hours of work allowed. The Child Performer Permit will have specific terms and conditions the applicant must follow.

Along with the permit, the applicant and the talent agency will receive a "Code of Conduct for Working with Child Performers", which must be followed by those working within the child talent industry.

What is the purpose of the "Code of Conduct for Working with Child Performers"?

The Code of Conduct was developed by the Canadian Centre for Child Protection and law enforcement officials who are experts in issues related to the exploitation of children. It outlines the shared responsibility between parents/guardians and agencies that work with child performers to protect children from those who see the industry as a way to get access to children for the purpose of exploitation.

The Code of Conduct will be included with the licences and Child Performer Permits along with information on the signs of abuse and what to do if you suspect abuse may be occurring. Anyone seeking a licence to work with child performers will be required to follow the code of conduct.

What is required by the "Code of Conduct for Working with Child Performers"?

Talent agencies promoting child performers must conduct themselves appropriately and take seriously their obligation to ensure all people working with children act safely and appropriately.

Agencies cannot substitute for a parent's or guardian's ability to watch their children and their children's work environment, for signs of abuse or misconduct. Parents/guardians must be familiar with the code of conduct and the activities of their children who work as performers. They need to understand the risk of abuse and they must be present at the job location or readily available to their children when they are working as performers. Parents/guardians must be prepared to take action in reporting anyone who does not follow the code.

For more information read the Code of Conduct for Working with Child Performers.

When can work with a child performer begin?

A recruiter and a talent agency must first receive their licence. Child performers may start work with a licensed agency once they receive their Child Performer Permit.

What happens to the permit if a child performer changes agencies?

Permits are given one time per child, per agency and are valid for as long as the child works with that talent agency (or until the child turns 17). If the child performer changes agencies, both the child and the new agency need a new permit.

How are child performers protected?

Employment Standards will conduct inspections and investigations and background checks to make sure the people working with child performers are reputable, they conduct themselves appropriately, and take seriously their obligation to ensure child safety.

If a person or business is found to have contravened the legislation, or does not abide by the "Code of Conduct for Working with Child Performers", the Director of Employment Standards has the ability to refuse, suspend, or revoke a licence or permit, and will take whatever action is necessary to protect a child's interest.

What can parents/guardians do to protect their child from exploitation in the talent industry?

Unscrupulous people prey on children with the promise of glamorous lifestyles, travel, and money. If your child is approached in a mall, invited to a photo-shoot, or told at a talent search fair they have the potential to become the next top model, you should be very cautious. The age of models has been decreasing steadily making these children (star-struck and hopeful) extremely vulnerable to people who use the industry to gain access to children.

1. If you or your child is approached by someone offering opportunities in the talent industry, check the website at www.manitoba.ca/labour/standards to be certain the person is licensed.
2. Be familiar with the "Code of Conduct for Working with Child Performers" and know the risks.
3. Be present at the job location or readily available to your child when they are working as performers.
4. Watch your child and his or her work environment, for signs of abuse or misconduct.
5. Take action in reporting anyone who does not follow the code of conduct.
6. If you are asked to pay fees related to seeking or finding work for the child performer, contact Employment Standards to discuss the matter.

Who do I contact to report suspicion of abuse or misconduct?

If you have suspicion, based on reasonable grounds, to believe a child is in need of protection, call the Child and Family All Nations Coordinated Response Network (ANCR) at 1-866-345-9241.
